followed by
Chili Cook-Off HOG Room

Hi Everyone!

Spring is coming. Spring is coming. Spring is coming. If we say it over and over maybe it will happen faster! It was so great seeing everyone at Game Night – we all had such a good time. Nice to catch up even with the snow flying!

50% off Riding Academy class with promo code RIDE50! The promo ends 3/3/19, but there are a limited number codes so sign up NOW! Even if you are not sure which date will work for you we can always move the date later, but the deal will not be available later.

March 23rd we are having a cookout. Maybe we can ride in that day! Check your email for details.

April 6th Spring Open House and April 7th will be Ukes', Frank Ulicki, Memorial Ride.

Think warm thoughts!

The Uke's Team

From the Director - Kevin Klee

Directors Notes:

Thanks to the chapter members, the Uke's team and families for joining us for Family Game Night. Wow what a fun night that began with a great meal and kinship. The cooks in the chapter surpassed expectations!

If you have not completed your 2019 membership form and paid your dues please do so at the next meeting or leave in an envelope with the motor clothes staff at the dealership. Speaking of membership! Talk the chapter up! You never know who may be interested and join. Example, there was a couple next to me at the chapter bowling party; I noticed she was wearing a Harley. I started a conversation and invited them to family game night. Not only did they come, they joined right in and were made to feel part of the family. Guess what? We have two new members! We have a great family and we have room for many more great people.

What's coming up?

March meeting Sunday March 10th will host our Annual Chili Cook off! Tweak those recipes and see how you do! In addition to chili this year there will also be a Cornbread Challenge. Do you make some killer cornbread throw your hat into that competition! Any way you look at it friendly competition is always fun!

REMINDER!

April meeting will be Sunday April 7th due to Officer Training. Mark your calendars now and watch for reminders.

Again, I have to say thanks to all the members who have stepped up and helped this chapter in any way. Without you, we would be ordinary but because of you we are extraordinary.

Kevin

Safety - Bob Clampit

REPEAT IT'S IMPORTANT....

Cabin Fever Safety...

That's right, it's winter and the longing for warm days is forever on our minds. When will it end? We need to satisfy that haunting echo in the back of our consciousness, but how...

'Tis the season really means it'll be a couple of months before we have the opportunity to once again throw a leg over our two-wheeled chariots and feel the power and pleasure that only our V-twin can provide. It is also the season to consider the needs of that bike and the rider/s that it carries.

Rubber, leather, lighting, airhorns that space between two ears, the list goes on...

Rubber, of course we're talking about two tires and ensuring that you have adequate tread to keep your grip on the road through corners and storms alike.

Leather, that outer shell that protects against the elements and the surface we ride on. Chaps and jackets provide both warmth from the chill and the comfort in knowing that should you go down you've given yourself a barrier from the unforgiving nature of asphalt.

Lighting, I mean LED and I mean that being seen is one of the most important things we can do to make our presence known to those we share the road with, yep, I'm talking cagers! Front lights, headlamps, spotlights and turn signals light up the bike like no other accessory, giving a stark visual signal that says, "here I am," and that may be all it takes to keep that teenager texting at the stop-sign from pulling out in front of you. Rear lights, brake and turn signals do exactly the same thing for those on your tail, consider a brake light that pulsates when you apply the brake, it really says to those following you that same "here I am," please slow down!

Airhorns, the moment you need it, you want to make sure the offending vehicle, no matter the type, knows that you are there. A loud notice to those you share the road with just might keep you up on your bike rather than having an unwelcome outcome. If you're on the fence about the expense ask me this spring to give you a sample of my horn, it makes quite a statement!

That space between two ears, that's right I'm talking about your noggin, it's yours and it's your most valuable asset in the quest for safety on two wheels. No one knows everything when it comes to riding safely, but we all can increase our knowledge base in a number of different ways. The Motorcycle Safety Foundation, <https://msf-usa.org/> has an online only course for just $19.99, it seems a bargain if you learn just one trick to add to your bag of knowledge. Advance or basic rider courses are available at Uke's Harley-Davidson, just ask and you'll be on your way to a safer ride. One more thing, a good helmet never hurt anyone and it's known to have saved more than one life, give it a try!

Reach out to the service department or the parts counter to add to your bike the accessories that'll help keep you seen and heard out there. Whether you do the wrenching or have the service department take care of your needs, you won't be disappointed knowing you're creating a safer experience for yourself and those you share the road with.

Experience is and will always be the greatest teacher when it comes to the road we share, but you have an arsenal of tools and knowledge at your disposal, all you have to do is begin with the first step. It will be a journey that should provide you with years of riding enjoyment with friends and others you encounter on this wild ride we call life!
